About JCI TOYP

Every year, JCI selects 10 outstanding young people under 40 who live the JCI Mission in extraordinary ways. Highlighting the accomplishments of these young active citizens in a variety of fields inspire us to be better and realize our full potential as active citizens.

The History of JCI TOYP

The JCI Ten Outstanding Young Persons of the World (JCI TOYP) Program is the result of similar programs run by affiliated National Organizations of JCI. The original program was developed by Durwood Howes, President of The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce (JCI USA), 1930-31. He conceived the idea of recognizing outstanding individuals by publishing a yearbook entitled, "America's Young Men," which highlighted the work of 12 exemplary leaders every year.

In 1938, the program was officially adopted by The United States Junior Chamber. Since 1952, numerous JCI National Organizations have established their own Outstanding Young Persons Programs. Past recipients of national awards include such well-known personalities as Orson Welles, Howard Hughes, Elvis Presley, Nelson Rockefeller, John F. Kennedy, Henry Kissinger, Gerald Ford, Benigno Aquino, Bill Clinton and many, many more, all named before the age of 40, before they had achieved national prominence.

In 1981, JCI officially adopted the Ten Outstanding Persons of the World Program. The first ceremony was held in Taipei, Taiwan, in 1983. The maximum number of ten (10) honorees received the TOYP Award, and the ceremony was hosted by Premier Sun Yun-Suan at the Dr. Sun Yat Sen Memorial Hall.

The trophy for TOYP Program was selected by a JCI trophy design competition. Eleven entries were received from five affiliated National Organizations. The winning entry was entitled, "The Hands for all Mankind", submitted by The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Each TOYP honoree has shown commitment to the motto, reminding all of us that, with creative enterprise and hard work, no problem is too difficult to solve. Each honoree is a living example of JCI's belief that "Earth's great treasure lies in human personality and that service to humanity is the best work of life"

JCI TOYP Singapore

Akin to a World Pageant, where finalists are selected from top winners via local pageants in various countries, JCI TOYP 2011's finalists, in the challenge for World Honorship, are chosen from top awardees via local selections in various countries.

41 Years of Recognizing Excellence in Singapore

JCI Singapore has been organizing TOYP Singapore selections since 1972, and this year, we are commemorating our 41st year of Recognizing Excellence in Singapore.

We have put many with exemplary performance in their respective fields on the world stage. That includes the leader of our country, Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong. This is the same stage which past American Presidents such as Bill Clinton, John F. Kennedy have stepped onto to as Honorees.

In Singapore, many honorable recipients were awarded with the TOYP of the World Award. Past recipients include Dr William Tan, Dr Wong Tien Yin, CTC actress See Too Hoi Siang and artiste Ho Yeow Sun, Dr Fatimah and Glenn Lim.
